The course will focus on various factors that threaten the healthy development of children. It will address physical risk factors, risk factors in the relationship between parent and child, and environmental factors such as poverty or war. It will also cover methods and programs for risk reduction and promoting healthy development of children.

A ecological perspective for risk development

